317 DIE TRAPPED IN CELLS IN OHIO PRISON-PLOT FIRE

Today

Again, Lindbergh.
Zaro, and a Turtle.
Great Rome, Her Birthday.
Wrong, Mr. Shaw.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE BRAIN POWER OF man seems to stand still. The civilized world today is far below the intellectual average of Athens in Pericles' day.

But science goes ahead and will gradually drag us with it.

Flying is the new great feat of science.

You see today pictures of Lindbergh and his wife in costumes for high air flying, much like Eskimos' clothes, but actually electrically heated flying suits.

You know the latest Lindbergh achievement, crossing the continent in 14 hours and 45 minutes, flying over 10,000 feet high.

Lindbergh, warned of storms at Wichita, said:

"We expect to fly high enough to miss the storms."

High up in the air, no storms. Deep in the ocean, no waves, and not very deep in either direction. Up a few miles a gentle breeze caused by the earth's movement moves always toward the East.

FLYING ONLY 10,000 feet up, Lindbergh could not see the towns over which he passed. This interests army officers of the Victorian era who think anti-aircraft or coast defense guns will be useful in future wars.

ZARO AGHA, of Constantinople, is 156 years old; his grandson, 100 years.

THE AMERICAN anti-alcohol society will exhibit them here as "proof of the benefit to be derived from total abstinence."

EVERYTHING that encourages temperance is useful.

The anti-alcohol society might exhibit with its Turkish gentlemen, who obey the laws of Mohammed, one of the 900-year-old turtles from the Galapagos Islands who also drinks no alcohol.

IT ISN'T WHAT YOU drink or don't drink, but what you amount to, that counts.

As Francis Bacon says:

"A man is what he knows."

Zaro Agha and the Galapagos turtle don't know much.

YESTERDAY WAS celebrated the anniversary of the founding of Rome. You know the story, which sounds improbable now. Two little brothers, Romulus and Remus, their mother was the vestal virgin Silvia, their father, Mars, God of War. In a wooden trough they were set afloat on the River Tiber and landed in a marsh, under a big tree, long worshiped as sacred.

A FEMALE WOLF KINDLY nursed the two boys. A woodpecker fed them. Then a shepherd's wife took care of them.

Later Romulus killed his brother Remus in a quarrel after they founded Rome.

The whole yarn was borrowed from the Greeks by the Romans, just as according to antiquarians much of a religion professed by many was borrowed from the Babylonians.

ROME DEVELOPED A wonderful people, ancient Romans and modern Italians, one of the greatest races in the world, as powerful now as they were two thousand years ago.

Long Rome has stood on those seven "hills," actually seven ridges made of volcanic ash, that millions of years ago filled an inland lake. Powerful men have ruled there, none more interesting than Mussolini, none perhaps more powerful in will.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW says:

"The talking film will kill the theater."

The brilliant old gentleman is mistaken. Newspapers did not kill well-printed books, talking machines did not destroy interest in grand opera, or in the singers as individuals.

Human beings want to meet each other. Shadows, even when they talk, cannot satisfy them completely.

The men in Plato's slave cave looking at reflections on the walls were not satisfied with those reflections after they heard about realties in the outside world.

WHEN MEN ADOPT murder as a trade, self-defense and detection are difficult.

Somebody, name unknown, decided to kill Frank Del Re and Joseph Special, two young men known to Chicago police as bootleggers racketeers, terrorists, all-round hard characters.

The unknown walked into their saloon, "The Blue Hour," shot them both dead, incidentally killed Walter Wakefield, the bartender. He was unimportant, but "dead men tell no tales."

AT CHITTAGONG, India, Hindus raid armories, seven killed, weapons stolen, some imprisoned by the British.

Gandhi assures his followers that they will have "independence in eight days" if they obey him, saying to his wounded followers as martyrs:

"A bullet wound in the thing is better than a prison wound. A wound in the heart is better still."

According to British, and American and northern ideas generally, a bullet wound in the thigh or heart of your opponent is the thing desirable.

FISHER PICKS GARDNER AS JUDGE

District Attorney Appointed To Fill Post of Martin; Evans' Successor Delayed

HARRISBURG, April 22.—Gov. John S. Fisher today appointed District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, of Allegheny County, to be a judge of the Court of Common Pleas to succeed the late Judge Richard W. Martin.

It was announced that the vacancy on the bench that would be created by the resignation of Judge John A. Evans would not be filled until after April 30, when the resignation becomes effective.

Gardner will be sworn into office Thursday morning by Judge Evans.

His successor will be chosen by the judges late tomorrow. Twelve are expected to participate in the election.

The appointee will serve the unexpired term, or until the prosecutor elected in November, 1931, takes office.

Gardner, one-time schoolmaster, is serving his second term as district attorney.

TREATY SIGNED, PARLEY ENDS

By HARRY R. FLORY.
International News Service.

LONDON, April 22.—The London naval treaty took its place in the world's library of peace today.

Exactly 13 weeks after its glittering and resplendent opening in the House of Lords January 21, the conference met in plenary session in Queen Anne's drawing room in ancient St. James' Palace, and the chief delegates of each of the five nations affixed their signature to the latest document composed to further the cause of disarmament.

After the signing and a series of speeches, optimistic for further limitation agreements in the future, the conference adjourned indefinitely this afternoon.

EX-BIG LEAGUER CONVICT HERO

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(AP.)—A hero of one prison "break," and one of the foremost trusties of the Ohio Penitentiary, Tacks Latimer, former major league baseball player, serving a life sentence for murder, was given a shotgun as soon as the alarm became general and scores of prisoners were released from their cells.

Latimer, who has been guard at the outer door for several years, stood vigil through the night.

Rockefeller Granted $356,378 Tax Refund

Death Takes Former Cue Champion and Wife

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP.)—George B. Sutton, famous old-time billiard player and for several years 18.2 balkline champion of the world, was found dead in his home today by friends who called to tell him of the death of his wife, Margaret. Mrs. Sutton had succumbed a few hours earlier in Frances Willard Hospital.

Sutton was 66 years old and his wife one year younger. They were devoted to each other, and through her weeks of illness Sutton had visited her daily at the hospital.

When Mrs. Sutton died at 3:30 a. m. today, hospital attendants tried to communicate with her husband, but telephone calls went unanswered. Friends forced an entrance to the home and found the veteran cue star in bed. A physician said heart disease probably caused death.

Mexicans Kidnap Maryland Doctor

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP.)—The State Department today announced receipt of information that Dr. George Edward Purnell, of Snowhill, Md., was kidnaped Sunday near Guadalajara, Mexico.

The information was contained in a telegram from Raleigh A. Gibson, American consul at Guadalajara. Mr. Gibson reported that he had notified the authorities of the kidnaping.

OFFICIALS IN CLASH AT PROBE; WARDEN'S SUSPENSION ASKED

Results of last night's fire at Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus:

1—Death toll placed at 317, with 130 more prisoners in the hospital, many of them likely to die.

2—Warden and other officials say blaze was of incendiary origin.

3—Investigation temporarily halted by Governor as county prosecutor clashes with state officials.

4—Nearly 1,000 armed militiamen and special policemen patrol walls and yards of prison to prevent any outbreak.

State Takes Over Disaster Inquiry

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(AP.)—An investigation of the Ohio penitentiary fire, launched today by Franklin County Prosecutor John Chester, Jr., was halted abruptly when Gov. Cooper directed State Attorney General Gilbert Bettman to take charge of the inquiry.

After the Governor acted, Chester said, Mr. Cooper had taken all power out of his hands and placed complete power with state officials. He took a part in the investigation hearings, however.

Chester had recommended that Warden Preston Thomas be suspended temporarily, pending investigation, and had ordered telephones removed from the warden's office.

When the inquiry was resumed under state direction, the most startling bit of testimony adduced came from the warden. He said guards, intent upon rescuing the trapped men, had been refused entrance to the burning ranges by Guard Thomas Watkinson and that they were forced to take a key from him before they could open any of

Ohio Pen Inmates Trapped in Cells

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(AP.)—Three hundred and seventeen Ohio State penitentiary convicts lay dead in a temporary morgue here today, mute testimony of the disastrous fire which swept through parts of four prison cell blocks last night.

Trapped behind locked cell doors, they had no chance to escape the flames and smoke which raced through the tiers.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD, ALL QUIET IN PRISON

The prison today continued an armed camp. Soldiers were on guard within the walls and outside. All was quiet. A flurry of excitement came when fire engines were rushed through the gates to fight a blaze in the smoldering ruins. This new outburst was quenched quickly.

Official count of the dead was announced as 317 this afternoon.

Bonzo said:

Of the dead, 266 have been identified and 51 are as yet unidentified.

'FIRE WAS INCENDIARY,' OFFICIALS DECLARE

As the dead were being prepared for burial in the coliseum of the state fair grounds, state officials, headed by Warden Preston E. Thomas and Director of Welfare H. H. Griswold, agreed the fire was of incendiary origin.

About 130 prisoners who were in the lower ranges of the cell blocks when the fire broke out were in the penitentiary hospital today, many of them seriously injured.

The flames were discovered shortly before 5:30 p. m. Within several hours the fire had been brought under control, but the suffocating smoke continued to take its toll among the convicts.

In adjoining cell blocks men screamed to be released, and when prison officials capitulated

OHIO CONVICTS PERISH AS FLAMES SWEEP PRISON

ARSON PLOT SEEN; MORE MAY DIE

Victims, Trapped in Locked Cells, Have No Chance; Prisoners Aid in Rescue

to their demands the wide penitentiary yard became a streaming mass of gray-clothed men.

Before two hours had passed this mass of men, picking their way among countless bodies spread over the yard, became a threatening menace. Some cut the fire hose which continued to play upon flames that spread to the prison cotton and woolen mills.

Machine Guns, Soldiers Fail to Quell Excitement

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guard room protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of Regular Army troops and 1,500 Ohio National Guardsmen were stationed at strategic places about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shifts was on duty.

Still the thousands of milling prisoners in the yard refused to be quieted. When they were ordered to assemble in the dining room many refused.

Later they were ordered into the remaining cell blocks and dormitories, but they insisted upon staying in the yard, crowding about the bodies of victims, which were arranged in long rows five and six deep.

Except for minor disturbances there was no trouble. About five hours after the fire was brought under control the ranks of scantily-clad convicts began to thin out, and at midnight only a few of them were left in the yard.

Flames Spread Terror; Incendiarism Apparent

Scenes of confusion and terror accompanied the outburst of the flames. They started in the northwest corner of a new building of cell blocks, part of which still was under construction.

It was in this new part that the fire originated, not more than half an hour after a gang of prisoners working on the job returned to their cells.

Apparently the flames broke out in several places simultaneously, officials said. Everything pointed to incendiarism, they indicated.

Listen G. Schooley, Cleveland Councilman, who is serving a term for participation in a Cleveland playground fraud, was at work in the deputy warden's office on the opposite side of the prison yard when he saw smoke rising from the cell blocks.

Then a great scream swelled from Sections G and H. In each there were six ranges of 17 cells, [illegible] prisoners to the cell. [illegible] the smoke were [illegible] them rapidly.

Guards Rush to Open Cells As Death Sweeps Ranges

William C. Baldwin and Tom Little, guard captains, dashed to the flaming building with keys to the cells.

At the same time other guards ran to the deputies' office, where Schooley, in the absence of officers, began handing out orders and issued all the keys he had.

Guards Baldwin and Little rushed into the smoke-filled building, took the keys to the ranges from the day guards and started unlocking cells.

Meanwhile fire companies, answering four alarms, spread every foot of hose available.

As the guards released convicts from one range they climbed to the next. Men were choking and gasping for breath.

As they were released many joined in the rescue work.

After he had unlocked the last cell on the smoke-filled fourth range Little collapsed. Four inmates carried him out. Baldwin struggled on to the fifth tier, then, he, too, collapsed and was carried to safety.

On the fourth and fifth ranges death took its toll rapidly. The lungs of the trapped men were filled with smoke. Ghastly sights greeted the rescuers. Suffocated men lay on the floor clutching with pale, white fingers at the bars that held them in.

Hundred Trapped Hopelessly; Prisoners Help Save Mates

Streams of water swished through the mesh and the iron bars and formed rivulets in which the faces of fallen men were buried.

Hundreds had been carried from the structure, and above the heads of the rescuers in the sixth and last range were more than a hundred others who could not possibly be saved. Bed mattresses and the cots were masses of flames.

Locks on the cells were battered away with sledge hammers. The mesh walls of the ranges were cut away with wire clippers. Hose lines winding a path up the flights of stairs, got in the road of stumbling men.

Outside the smoke-filled building the scene resembled a field of battle, strewn with corpses.

At first the prisoners who had escaped death emerged in pairs, carrying a comrade by the arms and feet. They hurried across a small clearing covered with new lumber and dropped the victims into the grass.

Then they applied methods of resuscitation.

For a while this revived the victims, but soon they came so fast that the convicts found themselves stumbling over each other, dropping the men they had carried out and hurrying back for others.

Tragic Scenes as Victims Moan Pain, Shriek Terror

Groans and feeble cries rose from the lips of the victims, and words of encouragement and shrieks of terror from the men who were working over them.

Seared and blackened faces bespoke the futility of pondering over men who already were dead.

Big gray blankets were spread profusely over the green grass.

"Make room for this man! He's alive! Gangway!" came the cry from a little group hurrying along the walks toward the hospital.

The lanes of prisoners separated. They made room for the man who had a chance to live.

Out of the guard room door poured doctors, internes, nurses, priests and ministers.

Dying men cried for the last rites of the church. Medical men, some without hats or coats and others in uniforms of white, tramped over the ground, which became soggy under the burden of many feet.

Two hours after the fire started, daylight had faded away and weary, troubled men worked on under the rays of the arc lights that gave the prison yard a dismal appearance.

It was about this time that muttering prisoners, chilled to the bone in the night air, because they would not obey orders to go inside, started the disturbances that caused so much alarm.

The effects of warm coffee served during the rescue operations and consumed freely by hundreds idling about as well as those who were working, had worn off when dark fell.

Prisoners Become Unruly, Guards Prepare for Trouble

But it was mostly the idle prisoners who were inclined to cause trouble. They assembled in small groups in different parts of the prison yard. The guards could do nothing with them. Stones flew through the air occasionally, and once a band of convicts rushed a gasoline supply truck that had been brought into the yard and tried to set it afire.

Several prisoners intervened, were pelted with tincups and dashed away, but the inclination to burn the gasoline truck was broken up.

Beyond the gates, in the office of Warden Thomas, in the warden's residence, in the record room and in the secretary's office, state and county officials, armed guardsmen and troopers were prepared for trouble.

Electricians, aided by trusties, climbed to the guard tower atop the front wall and installed floodlights that illuminated nearly every corner of the yard.

Policemen patrolled the walks; prison guards were ready with pointed weapons.

Occasionally among the milling prisoners could be seen the striped cap of a member of First "K" Company, that notorious band of convicts ordinarily kept under close lock and key because of their tendency to start trouble on the least provocation.

Radio Broadcasting Stations Asked to Quell Fear Outside

But the men apparently became convinced that there was little to be gained by adding to the appalling situation created by the fire. The groups thinned out. They took to their bunks.

In the outside world there was many a family whose anxiety could not be quieted last night. Out of the prison population of more than 4,000, each prisoner who escaped the fate of those in companies G and H was as anxious to spread the word that he was safe as his relatives were hopeful of receiving it.

Prison officials finally called upon radio stations to broadcast the news that all prisoners who were safe would send word to their families today.

While the disaster was revealing itself at its worst, pandemonium reigned without, as well as within the prison walls.

Black smoke, rolling in clouds from the roof of the damaged cell blocks, was the first signal to the outside world of the impending catastrophe.

Troops Called to Clear Crowds Impeding Officials

Spectators gathered rapidly, and within a few minutes forced a serious handicap upon the officials trying to maintain order.

The crowds surged up to the lawn fronting the prison and policemen battled futilely against them. Automobile traffic jammed the surrounding streets.

A company of troops finally was called into action to clear West Spring street, on which the penitentiary faces, and other abutting thoroughfares. The troops charged up the street with fixed bayonets.

Guards stationed on the outside dropped their rifles and picked up sub-machine guns to drive back the throngs. This maneuvering brought prompt success.

Ohio penitentiary is 40 years old. New buildings have been added from time to time, but the general property is much the same as in the beginning.

It was built to accommodate 1,600 prisoners. The population yesterday was 4,300. Overcrowded conditions for years have proved the greatest source of trouble at the penitentiary. The building in which the fire victims met death was comparatively new.

The roof was covered with an oil substance that made fuel for the flames. The fire started in the roof and ate a steady path until the entire covering was consumed. The building was constructed of concrete, brick, steel and wood.

Panic of Guards Hinted As State Opens Quiz

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Warden P. E. Thomas, of the state Penitentiary, in a statement to Hal H. Griswold, state welfare director, declared that he was in his residence in the front of the prison when he heard the cry of fire. He said:

"I rushed to the guard room. There I turned in a second fire alarm. After calling to a guard to get the keys, I ran outside the prison, where I posted guards in case a concentrated effort to escape was made."

"Who was that guard?" asked Griswold.

"I don't know," replied the warden.

Sergt. Edward Jenkins, of the guards, told an almost similar story. He, too, said he had turned in a second alarm, and after running to the scene, had returned to the guardroom and then went outside the walls to see that guards were around the prison. He was asked:

"What were your instructions in case of such a fire?"

"I didn't have any. We don't have fire so often," was the reply.

Gov. Cooper Intervenes as Prosecutor Chester Asks Suspension of Warden

the cell doors. The heat drove them back before they finished the task and 317 convicts died in the inferno of barred cells.

Several state officials had protested Chester's actions against the warden, and this was followed by the governor's announcement designating Bettman as the chief investigator.

GOVERNOR ARRIVES AT PENITENTIARY

Gov. Cooper arrived at the penitentiary during the morning and went to the warden's residence, where the investigation, launched last night, was continued.

Chester early today had asked State Welfare Director Griswold to suspend Warden Thomas.

Chester said:

"I have asked Welfare Director Griswold to suspend Warden Thomas, without criticism, so that prisoners will be free to talk and give any information without possible influence over them.

Chester ordered all telephones removed from the warden's office.

Prison Guard Ordered Suspended From Duty

Prison Guard Wahlman also was suspended from duty.

Advised that Chester had ordered the warden's phones removed, Dale Donithan, one of Gov. Cooper's secretaries, accompanied by a National Guard officer, rushed from the prison to the executive mansion to protest the prosecution's action to the state's chief executive. Gov. Cooper's intervention followed.

Prosecutor Chester and two members of his staff, accompanied by Warden Thomas, went into a closed conference shortly after the prosecutor reached the prison.

Guards failed to realize quickly the seriousness of the fire and directed their first efforts against a possible outbreak rather than rescue work. It was indicated in testimony at the official investigation of the disaster.

Prison Record Office Turned Into Courtroom

The prison record office was converted into a courtroom for the official investigation.

The board was composed of Gov. Cooper, Early C. Shively, first assistant attorney general; Joseph Godown, and Harry G. Levy, assistant attorneys general; County Prosecutor Chester, Welfare Director Griswold and George Edge and Frank Reighard, members of the state clemency board.

FIRST ALARM

Warden Thomas said the G and H cells housed 320 men in all there. He said that at approximately 5:55 p. m. the first alarm was sounded. He explained that keys to the cells in the blazing tiers were kept in the main guard room to prevent prisoners taking them from guards. When he reached the prison yard, he continued, he ordered eight guards, just coming on duty, to get the keys to the cells in the blazing men. About 12 minutes later, he said, a detail of Ohio National Guardsmen were on the scene. The warden declared he had no definite idea as to the cause of the blaze.

Asked if guards had any special instructions about fires, the warden replied no particular instructions were issued, but that the guards are expected to act to meet any situation.

Asked if any inflammable material was near the spot where 320 convicts had been working, near the scene of the start of the fire, Warden Thomas replied there was a gasoline concrete mixer, but he did not know if it had been in operation Monday. He said he had no idea as to how the fire started, and heard no rumors of dissatisfaction.

Warden Thomas said his first orders on receiving word of the fire were to send a family with keys to the prison gates to let the five prisoners in.

The warden said he armed two guards with shot guns and took personal charge of escorting the prisoners from the outside to prevent possible escape of prisoners.

Bodies Taken From Fire Within 20 Minutes

The warden said it was probably 20 minutes from the time he was notified of the fire until the men were bringing out bodies.

C. W. Osborn, assistant Columbus fire chief, said he was the first fireman to arrive on the scene. He figured it was not more than 15 minutes from the time the alarm came into the fire station until he had his apparatus inside the prison walls.

Osborn said when he arrived on the cell range, prisoners and guards were rushing about opening cells. Some were using keys and others were battering the locks off with axes, he said. The work of opening the cells, he said, "seemed to be rather slow," but the load was so intense and the smoke so dense that it was difficult for them to make speedy headway.

Firemen Are Overpowered By Impatient Convicts

The assistant fire chief said they began pumping water within five minutes after he arrived on the cell range.

Osborn could throw little light on whether the guards were doing all in their power to free the prisoners.

"The guards said they were unlocking the cells, but the prisoners said they were not. I did not see any guards unlocking cells."

Prisoners, impatient at the efforts of firemen to extinguish the blaze which was threatening to take the lives of their friends, overpowered the firemen and took the hose lines from them in an attempt to play streams of water on the cells where the prisoners were held, Osborn said. So concerned their efforts were futile as the hose was not long enough to reach the upper tiers of cells where the prisoners were confined.

Night Capt. John Hall said he had just arrived to go on duty when the fire was discovered, but had not yet taken over his duties, he said.

"I was down in the cell block and seeing the dense smoke was suffocating the prisoners, opened the windows on the east side block so as to allow fresh air to them."

Capt. Hall said he did not know what guards were on duty as it was just at the time the day shift was leaving and the night shift coming on duty. He continued:

"I did not see any guards unlocking cells, but the smoke was so dense that they could have been doing so and I would not have seen them."

2 Guards in Hospital Unable to Testify

Deputy Criswold sought to have Guards Baldwin and Little brought in for questioning, but the hospital reported they were not in condition to testify.

Criswold Jenkins, sergeant of the guard said:

"I had no instructions in case of fire except to guard the prison."

Deputy Tyson Jones of Woodward, said he was outside the prison when he saw smoke and flames coming from the blocks. He rushed to the prison and found that all cells in the vicinity of the fire had been unlocked except the ones in the top ranges. He said it probably was 20 minutes before he could get to the top of the cell ranges to let the prisoners out.

"When I got there prisoners and guards were pounding the locks with axes and hammers to break them."

He said there were supposed to be two guards on duty at the cells. Prisoners carried most of the dead out, he said.

REPUBLIC STEEL HEAD DIES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 22.—(A.P.)—E. T. McCleary, president of the newly formed Republic Steel Corporation, died in a hospital here today following two operations.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and backer of the new Republic merger, and James A. Campbell, chairman of the board of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, were at the bedside when their friends and industrial associate died.

McCleary, who was 51, began his career in Youngstown as metallurgist for the Carnegie Steel Company. Twenty-two years ago, when Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company began building its plant, he went with that company as chemist. His rise was rapid with the fast growing sheet and tube organization. In 1926 he became vice president. Joining the Republic Company in April 1928, McCleary became president and when the new $250,000,000 Republic corporation was formed by a recent merger he became president of the new combination.

He leaves his widow and two children, Dorothy and Elmer T., Jr.

HOOVER PLEADS FOR THRIFT TO AVOID DEFICIT

Fearing 29 to 30 Million Shortage, Asks Congress To Curb Expenditures

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover fears a deficit of from $29,000,000 to $30,000,000 in the federal treasury next year unless Congress immediately pares down on expenditures, it was revealed today when Senator James Reed of Washington, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, made public a letter from the executive.

The President declared there was "cause for real alarm in the situation."

He pointed out there were bills passed either by the House of Senate or favorably reported in either branch, totaling $200,000,000 in additional expenditures. He intimated most of these bills should be killed to prevent a deficit.

U. S. OFFERS OHIO PRISON RELIEF

Drama Recalls Warnings On Overcrowding; 4,300 in Cells Built for 1,500

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(A.P.)—The Bureau of Federal Prisons today instructed Alban MacDonald, warden of the United States Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., to go to Columbus and confer with Warden Thomas, of the state penitentiary, to see if the federal prison department could be of any assistance in the catastrophe which resulted in the death last night of more than 300 convicts.

MacDonald will offer to provide accommodations for any prisoners that can be used for an emergency.

No word can be taken from, however, as the normal capacity of the reformatory is 1,300 and there are 1,200 inmates in the federal institution.

CROWDING HARMED WORST

NEW YORK, April 22.—(A.P.)—Overcrowding of the Ohio State Prison, scene of yesterday's tragic fire, was charged in the 1928 handbook of the National Society of Penal Information.

The report said:

"The ancient plant at the state penitentiary in Columbus, one of the largest prisons in the country, suffers from a condition of overcrowding worse than that in any other prison.

"The need of another institution in the Ohio penal system has been apparent for many years, but the state is only now taking steps to alleviate the conditions at Columbus. Even with the completion of the new building program it will be able to care for its present population only under conditions that fall far below accepted modern standards for housing prisoners."

DISASTER FOREGOES

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(A.P.)—More than a year ago Dr. S. S. Dunning, head of the Prison Relief Society, went to Columbus, O., to confer with Warden Preston E. Cooper, of Ohio, a prison which later became notorious after the death in the fire of the warden and many of more than 300 convicts.

Dr. Dunning wrote a letter to Gov. Cooper charging the state was not sympathetic of the failure to heed the warning of the prisoners' lack of confidence in the warden.

Ohio Prison Jammed, Warden Here Told

Warden John Woffat, of the Allegheny County Jail, said today that a few weeks ago a committee of the Ohio State Penitentiary, calling on jail keys, met of conditions in the Columbus penitentiary.

"Conditions are terrible. It is a wonder that the cells are filled with men as often as they are," the warden said.

"The letter has caused me to conclude that the place is more or an engine of hell."

It is unfortunate in the country, he said, that conditions were that at the Ohio prison.

Every morning when a letter to Gov. Cooper charging the jail was not answered of the failure to heed the warning of the prisoners' lack of confidence in the warden.

SAVED BY GOD

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(A.P.)—Ohio penitentiary cons of a dungeon the shooting scra that has left five dead and 320 [illegible] and was designed to house only [illegible] 600 men. A roll call yesterday morning showed the total number was 4,000.

Warden P. E. Thomas has been warden of the prison for about 12 years. He is a noted authority on prisons. Under his rule there have been no major riots, but there have been many defiances and escapes.

The fire "probably will mean a new prison," Gov. Moses Y. Cooper said.

Families and Prison Pals Mourn Dead in Vast Tomb

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(A.P.)—The exhibition building of the Ohio State Fair Grounds, for years a house of living plants, flowers and botanical specimens, today was a vast temporary tomb in which rested the cracked and burned bodies of 317 convicts, the dead of the greatest penitentiary disaster in history. Flowers from the state gardens softened the grim scene.

Where last fall thousands of visitors passed the exhibitions produced by Ohio's horticulturists, deathly silence reigned, drowning out everything but the memory of former gaiety.

With the dawn, the vanguard of a small army of relatives of the dead men began to arrive.

Here tearful mothers and wives, long separated by the walls of the penitentiary from their sons and husbands, mingled with brothers and fathers, stoney in the face of the tragedy.

One work gradual 25 or 30 trustys who were sent to the fair grounds to help unload the bodies as they arrived. Sometimes, walking down the silent lanes of dead men, tears streamed down their faces as they recognized some prison "pal."

TRAINED IN Helpfulness to guests

The "homey" feeling which so many Statler guests recognize and comment upon, isn't created wholly by mechanical means, or by equipment.

You like the taste of your room, of course, and the rustling paper under your door, and the ice water and the bed head reading lamp, and the other characteristic Statler conveniences and comforts.

But what most Statler guests are apt to remark first and longest is the cheerful, helpful service they get in those hotels. They represent, in other words, Statler employees.

And the reason is that Statler employees are most carefully selected, in the first place, and then are most carefully trained. It is Statler policy to go beyond routine in service to guests, and to meet the unusual request, the emergency, condition, with forethought.

Stop in there in your car, or take a train, and see for yourself. Rates are moderate and always guaranteed.

Ever see a boy behind a Shredded Wheat Biscuit? You will have to look quick before the biscuit disappears but wait and you will see him take another biscuit—and more milk. The more he chews the crisp shreds of baked whole wheat, the more he likes it—and that's the reason he is a real boy, full of bounding energy and radiant health. Just as good for grown-ups. Ardeth Unhappy When Ken Fails to Visit Shop

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ardeth Carroll, who looms on Art Asst. Stella Grayle's horizon as being wooed by Neil Burke. While out with Neil Ardeth sees Ken Grason. Ardeth has never been introduced to Grason and the two just gaze at each other. Neil becomes jealous. Later Neil asks Ardeth to marry him, but she refuses. Ardeth goes to work for Jeanette Eatori in a new specialty shop. There Jeanette introduces Ardeth to Grason. The two new friends go on a Sunday outing together in a hired boat. Grason tells Ken explains that he is employed by Jeanette Eatori.

12 FOUND LIKE WASHINGTON

Strange if remarks that our own brilliant, versatile, masterful generation should be raising questions with reference to monogamy. Imported vulgarities have taken the place of our home grown moralities. A war of terrestrial proportions left civilization baffled, stunned. The older moralities have been openly jeered and made the butt of many a modern jest.

ALL FOR EDUCATION

Unfaithfulness is the fashionable theme of the stage and the talkies. Sex pathology, studied by specialists, advertised by fiction writers. Smut and dirt compound themselves into good stories. Jazz with its primeval jungle tom-tom inspires to contortions of dance unbilled to indigent rheumatics.

Desire is but to be satisfied. If one can't be good, be hygienic. Let your opportunity be your guide. These philosophies are widespread enough to call out the church to the education of youth in the ethics of Christ.

Woman's Alliance Elects Officers

Eighteen months departed Bud Boulton returns from the wilds of Africa to tell not of the hardships nor of the important scientific discoveries made for Carnegie Museum but of his wife. Then 500 miles like Mrs. Boulton led the way when all others dropped for husband boasts. What's more, not once did Hubby and wife alone most of the time quarrel. Mrs. Boulton made what seems to us a very important discovery. There are blondes in Africa. Albinos of pink eyes, light complexion and light hair.

Will Rogers Says:

PONCA CITY, Okla.
April 22

We have the biggest celebration the state ever had here today, unveiling a statue to "the pioneer woman." Its to the West what erecting one to Washington was to the East. Tell you all about it tomorrow. Had breakfast in Beverly Hills and dinner here in Ponca. That's not a Lindbergh, but it's pretty good for me. I didn't have any wife to do the navigating for me.

You know a wife can be either a big help or a hindrance to a man in his business. The way that little woman has taken that fellow and made an aviator out of him is wonderful. It used to take him two days to get across this country. If she had been with him going to Paris they would have got there for lunch.

Yours,
WILL

Sport Vignettes

One of these days there will be a big sports story worthy of a spread on the first page. It will be about Clarence DeMar NOT winning a Marathon race and especially the Boston Marathon which he has captured seven times. By the way, what has become of Sandy Seifert, the South Side heavyweight boxer, who gave so much promise a few years ago and then suddenly dropped from the limelight? He was a familiar figure going about the city without a hat to promote the growth of his hair. Perhaps he was just a little too nice a fellow to succeed in the tough boxing racket. Anyway, what has become of him? Now, what do you think of our blood thirsty Pirates, who returned home today to open the local season tomorrow? No less than 574 schools, colleges and universities are entered in the Penn relay carnival next Friday and Saturday. In addition to all of the relay competitions, there will be 15 special events, among them the Decathlon championship, in which Barney Berlinger, the Penn star, will defend his laurels. Ninety-nine events are scheduled and more than 3,000 athletes will participate in the two-day program. One of the features will be a mile race involving Ray Conger, of the Pittsburgh A. A., pure proportions, Jo Nigro, of the N. Y. A. C., and Joe Concannon, of the Boston A. A. Football is the pet sport of Fidel LaBarba, former flyweight boxing champion, who regrets that he didn't grow big enough to play that game. The Chicago district will see its first steeplechase racing in more than a quarter of a century at the Arlington Park meeting in July. Three such events will be carded weekly. Two return bouts top off a classy show at the Stadium in Chicago, April 30. One is a second meeting between Tuffy Griffiths and Jack Gagnon, who knocked him out recently in Philadelphia, and the other between Joey Medill and Stanislaus Loayza, who fought a draw in their last clash. LET NO ONE TELL YOU that the choice leaves of golden Turkish and velvety-brown Domestic tobacco are selected for Camel Cigarettes by nature's own alchemy. It is worked a miracle in them that no effort of man can hope to duplicate.

Every tiny leaf-cell is irradiated—stored full of goodness by the clean, pure vigor of the sun!

Our share in the making of Camels is to see that all of the fragrance, mildness, mellowness, aroma—in a word all of the natural goodness of these sun-ripened tobaccos is preserved and developed—then to combine them into the smooth, delightful harmony of the famous Camel blend, and manufacture them into cigarettes by the most modern methods known to the industry.

You can taste the natural goodness in every delicious puff of a Camel Cigarette.
